Stealing His Ginseng.

Unknown parties have been stealing ginseng from W. S. Ashby, proprietor of the Highland Nursery, several miles below this city. Mr. Ashby is very anxious to apprehend the culprits and has cautioned local ginseng dealers to be on the lookout for them. Mr. Ashby has been endeavoring to get a start with ginseng on a large scale, but his efforts have been meeting with bad luck, the precious root being stolen out of the field upon several occasions.

A Sustaining Diet.

These are the enervating days, when, as somebody has said, men drop by the roadside as if the Day of Fire had dawned. They are fraught with danger to people whose systems are poorly sustained; and this leads us to say, in the interest of the less robust of our readers, that the full effect of Hood's Sarsaparilla is such as to suggest the propriety of calling this medicine something besides a blood purifier and tonic,—say, a sustaining diet. It makes it much easier to bear the heat, assures refreshing sleep, and will without any doubt avert much sickness at this time of year.

Cloverport is a Healthy Town.

If few deaths is an index to the health of a place, Cloverport is certainly one of the healthiest towns in the country, and this fact alone should cause more people to locate within its limits. The small number of deaths here during the first half of 1904, for a town of nearly 2,000 inhabitants, seems almost remarkable to not a few persons who have noted the fact and discussed it.

During some months there has not been a single death and sometimes for five and six weeks this is the case, as during the summer.

PARKER AND DAVIS ARE CHOSEN AS STANDARD BEARERS BY DEMOCRATS.

Last Wednesday was the opening day of the Democratic national convention, 10,000 people being seated in the great coliseum at St. Louis when the meeting was called to order. The feature of the day was the address of the Hon. John Sharp Williams, temporary chairman of the Democratic National Convention. With sharp sarcasm he assailed the official record of the Republican party, and told how the Democratic party intends to carry out Jeffersonian precepts in its administration.

The first day marked the passing of Bryanism, although the Nebraska man was given a number of hearty cheers. The mention of Cleveland's name evoked a noisy demonstration. Thursday the efforts of officials to control the galleries were hopeless, the day being one of wild disorder. The Bryan-Hearst combination had succeeded in packing the convention hall with 2,000 or 3,000 of their voters and hangers-on, and, according to some, Bryan received a great ovation when he entered the hall, but it was also plain to many that the ovation was manufactured, he having received only the cheers of the Bryan-Hearst hangers-on, who had been instructed to "raise" as much as they could for Bryan. Tammany resigned to the Parker programme Thursday and everything was Parker.

Thursday the Hon. Champ Clark, who was elected permanent chairman over Bailey, of Texas, in his speech, convulsed the convention time and again with his witty dig at Republicanism and Republicanism. During the day the Kentucky delegation was busy honoring Gov. Beckham for vice-president.

The convention spent the morning hours Friday waiting for the report of the Committee on Resolutions, which had been at work for hours on the platform. A committee was appointed by Chairman Clark to call on the Resolutions Committee and learn from them when their report would be submitted to the convention. Just before the noon hour, the convention's emissaries announced that the Resolutions Committee would require until 8 o'clock p. m. to prepare its report, but that the action of the committee would be unanimous and a platform submitted which, he declared, would bring the party a "glorious victory." The convention then took a recess until 8 o'clock.

Beginning at 8 o'clock Friday evening the convention held an all-night session. The platform was read and adopted soon after the opening of the session, but the nominations were not made until 5:30 o'clock Saturday morning, when Judge Anton B. Parker, of New York, was nominated for president on the first ballot. Parker received 458 votes on the first ballot. Idaho changed her six votes, giving him 464 votes, and West Virginia added three votes, giving him the 467 votes, or two-thirds necessary. Champ Clark moved that the nomination be made unanimous. Amid the wildest enthusiasm the nomination was made unanimous and the convention adjourned until 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. One of the greatest features of the session was the masterful address of Bryan, who was listened to by the vast audience with more attention than any man who spoke during the convention.

At the last session of the convention, held Saturday and Sunday night, Henry Davis, of West Virginia, was nominated for vice-president on the first ballot. Davis is a railroad president, banker, coal operator and former United States Senator.

Early Saturday morning Parker sent a telegram to the convention stating that he regarded the gold standard as fixed and irrevocably established, and would act in accordance with his views if elected. The "message" caused a general commotion at the convention. After a long debate the convention replied to Parker that his views were not inconsistent with his acceptance of the nomination, and this answer was overwhelmingly adopted.

Harvey. Certainly this dog of an un-believer looked as if he could pay well. It would do him harm to let him remain on board. After disposing of his com- pleted passenger he had no objection to making a little more ready money.

Out upon the Captain shot the vessel, and Harvey watched the busy methods of the sailors. Five good men could have landed the boat in a storm. It took a twenty of them to do it in this water.

Hassan thought to earn the money by passing Harvey on another boat. He stood in the low and swarmed the deck. But all that day he saw none and began to get uneasy.

"It seems he expects a boat to over- take him," thought Harvey. Hassan had been looking ahead for a boat. Now he cast his eyes astern. He was looking for the Russian gun- boat he knew would follow if it were suspected that Koura had been taken away in his vessel. All night they sailed, but saw nothing. In the morn- ing a cry broke from Hassan. Just ahead lay a long, low hull, with sails that seemed capable, if properly han- dled, of producing great speed. It could be seen the black smoke that came from an approaching steamer.

"Hassan is surprised, excited and afraid," said Harvey. "I wonder if I've got myself mixed up in a smuggling game. That looks like a Russian gunboat coming."

The crew were evidently as excited as Hassan and watched with anxious eyes the gunboat.

"What vessel is that?" shouted Hassan to the boat ahead as they hurried each other.

"This is the boat of our heavenly lord, the master of Bekhara," came the answer.

Hassan's vessel was somehow rig- ged. The other was a sort of sloop, having a single mast with lateen sail. The sloop rounded to and Hassan shouted:

"I have some news for you. Come over. The Muscovites are coming."

"Let us be shrewd," said the man on the black boat. "Let not the Muscovites see us together. What have you? Have you seen Mike?"

"Yes, it is that for which Mike went to Tiflis. Harvey? If the Muscovites catch him, I shall have a fine reward."

"And what of me?" asked the other. "Kirkak is not yet weary of this life."

The lateen sail was drawn to the wind, and the black boat shot away.

"Come upon those comrades! What shall I do?" yelled Hassan. Then, turning in fury upon Harvey, he leaved out.

"This is because of you, miserable dog of a Ghauri! If they do not seize me, I will kill you! Allah, Allah be praised! Allah, Oh Allah! Mohammed رسول الله!"

"Strikes now you'll better be saying you'll be careful to be a sinner," said Harvey. "You've been up to something here, I'll bet a dollar. You have got the post office for ever say- ing a man. I wonder if it is some- thing."

There was no use trying to get away. The sea still rolled in no match for the gunboat. The hull was growing bigger every minute. Soon a puff of smoke was seen on the gunboat's deck. A boom was heard from the water and three times on top of the water and sank a few feet from Hassan's boat.

"By Jove! They'll sink this boat with me in it!" exclaimed Harvey. "Don't wonder that Hassan is afraid."

The entire crew stood with folded arms. Their actions were fixed on Hassan's face, and their expressions were but reflections of his own. Hassan gave a command, and the boat swung round and away. A small boat from the gunboat was soon up close, and two officers came aboard.

"You heard?" exclaimed one. "What do you mean by sinking away in the night?"

"Hold on, my friend," said Harvey, for the officer had looked at him while speaking. "I don't know what you want, but you are seriously interfering in my business. I have engaged this man to take me to Astrakhan."

"Astrakhan? But why did you leave Tiflis in the night?"

"This," I haven't been to Tiflis."

"The boat left Tiflis in the night—three-four nights ago."

"With that I have nothing to do. I joined the boat in the night and was engaged with this man, who seems to be in command, to take me to Astrakhan or put me aboard a boat that was going there."

"Is that true, Osmanni?" asked the officer.

"Is it true, O great representative of the greatest ruler on earth except the pasha?"

I wished to sail early in the morning a week, the hour of the day, and told him what I had found. He and his lovely daughter at once re- turned with me to the boat. I placed some wine before them and went to get some of the linen. I was seized and knocked down and some cloth was snatched from my mouth. I heard the merchant speaking and also the girl scream, but I was bound securely and could not go to the relief of this young lady.

I did not know that her father was doing but I could hear him speak- ing loudly and harshly. In the morn- ing two strangers came to me and said they had taken command of my boat. They did not permit me to go far from the boat, and through me they gave orders to the men. We sailed from Tiflis, and at a small place just before we reached Salata these men left the boat. But they ordered me to take the girl to Astrakhan. They also said that at Salata a dinner would get on board and that he would go to Astrakhan alone, but I believed that something was wrong and refused to take him. At Salata the man came from the wharf and came on board at the risk of his life and insisted upon being carried to Astrakhan. He asked if I had the young lady with me. I told him no. I was about to put them on board that boat when I saw your smoke and be- lieved it was wisest to wait and tell them the truth."

"Is that true? Could you understand?" the officer asked of Harvey.

"That part concerning me is all true except that I asked for no young lady. I have heard of no young lady since I came on the boat."

"Is this young lady?" asked the officer.

"I will bring her to you," said Hassan.

He went into the cabin and soon re- turned with Koura, who gave a scream of delight when she saw the Russian officer.

"Oh, my father! What have they done to him?"

"That is to be learned. He was at- tacked by a Russian soldier. He had been on board until it nearly reached the Captain. What do you know about this strange matter?"

"Yes, it is a little. We went to see some linen."

"Did you see Hassan struck?"

"I saw nothing. I was blindfolded."

"What did your father say?"

"Nothing. I did not hear him speak."

"There seems to be some truth in this story. Do you swear you tell the truth, Osmanni?"

"I swear by Allah."

"And you, my friend? Who are you?"

"I am an American. There was a young lady here in trouble. I would have assisted her. Looks like a game of kidnapping to me."

"Now said while I am going to Astrakhan. I want to get to the big fair at Novgorod to exhibit some windmills."

"And you did not go to the big fair at Tiflis?"

"No, I just came from Astrakhan."

"In board a German steamer."

"I think you are a liar. At any rate, you are arrested in the name of the czar."

"On what charge do you dare arrest an American citizen?"

"On the charge of abducting one of his majesty's subjects. This matter will be settled at Tiflis. Follow me."

"Here's luck!" exclaimed Harvey. "I've got to go to Tiflis a prisoner, and Koura would of windmills waiting at Astrakhan."

CHAPTER V. THE GOVERNOR OF A PRISON AND THE GIRL HARVEY MEETS LOVER.

COLONEL JURNEFF, the gov- ernor of the prison at Tiflis, sat in his office, which was a portion of the apartments allotted to himself and family. An open letter lay beside him on a table. A perplexed look was on his face. He was a cold man, usually imperturbable, but something in the letter had disturbed him.

"Not a bit of it! I have just received a letter from my brother, who has heard from one of our secret agents at Paris, that the American is now at Astrakhan, in Persia, selling his wares, and has said he was going to the big fair at Nijni Novgorod, which soon be- gins."

"It is a courage—he is a fool, excel- lency."

"You might have finished your sen- tence. He is a courageous fool. But, thank heaven, I have the young lady safe here in Tiflis. If he expects to meet her at Novgorod, he will be dis- appointed. I must send word at once to Nijni Novgorod and Astrakhan. It may be possible to intercept him on the way."

The orderly bowed and was dismis- sed. A few minutes later a higher of- ficer entered. He was Captain Orskoff.

"I salute you, colonel."

"I am glad to say we have recovered Koura. We have captured the two who were taking her away. They will be brought here and locked up to await trial."

"Then Bartlett is not really try- ing to sell his daughter?"

"We cannot make head or tail of it. Koura knows little, but believes in her father's innocence. Surely he will be dis- missed the money. Moreover, he cannot be found."

"Is that rascally Turk, Hadis Effendi, in the city?"

"Yes. I have placed him under ar- rest."

"If it was a slave selling affair, Hadis had a finger in it. He is a shrewd rascal. But who is that you captured, and where?"

"A Georgian. Thak, with the gunboat stationed near the Kur, ran down on the way."

"That is to be learned. He was at- tacked by a Russian soldier. He had been on board until it nearly reached the Captain. What do you know about this strange matter?"

"I am glad to say we have recovered Koura. We have captured the two who were taking her away. They will be brought here and locked up to await trial."

"Then Bartlett is not really try- ing to sell his daughter?"

"We cannot make head or tail of it. Koura knows little, but believes in her father's innocence. Surely he will be dis- missed the money. Moreover, he cannot be found."

"Is that rascally Turk, Hadis Effendi, in the city?"

"Yes. I have placed him under ar- rest."

"If it was a slave selling affair, Hadis had a finger in it. He is a shrewd rascal. But who is that you captured, and where?"

"A Georgian. Thak, with the gunboat stationed near the Kur, ran down on the way."

"Oh, my father! What have they done to him?"

"That is to be learned. He was at- tacked by a Russian soldier. He had been on board until it nearly reached the Captain. What do you know about this strange matter?"

"Yes, it is a little. We went to see some linen."

"Did you see Hassan struck?"

"I saw nothing. I was blindfolded."

"What did your father say?"

"Nothing. I did not hear him speak."

"There seems to be some truth in this story. Do you swear you tell the truth, Osmanni?"

"I swear by Allah."

"And you, my friend? Who are you?"

"I am an American. There was a young lady here in trouble. I would have assisted her. Looks like a game of kidnapping to me."

"Now said while I am going to Astrakhan. I want to get to the big fair at Novgorod to exhibit some windmills."

"And you did not go to the big fair at Tiflis?"

"No, I just came from Astrakhan."

"In board a German steamer."

"Not a bit of it! I have just received a letter from my brother, who has heard from one of our secret agents at Paris, that the American is now at Astrakhan, in Persia, selling his wares, and has said he was going to the big fair at Nijni Novgorod, which soon be- gins."

"It is a courage—he is a fool, excel- lency."

"You might have finished your sen- tence. He is a courageous fool. But, thank heaven, I have the young lady safe here in Tiflis. If he expects to meet her at Novgorod, he will be dis- appointed. I must send word at once to Nijni Novgorod and Astrakhan. It may be possible to intercept him on the way."

The orderly bowed and was dismis- sed. A few minutes later a higher of- ficer entered. He was Captain Orskoff.

"I salute you, colonel."

"I am glad to say we have recovered Koura. We have captured the two who were taking her away. They will be brought here and locked up to await trial."

"Then Bartlett is not really try- ing to sell his daughter?"

To Old Point Comfort And The Seashore, Aug. 13th.

A Tour of Education.

Delightful side trips at low rates. Every attention and courtesy will be extended to ladies traveling alone. (Choice route returning, between Richmond and Clifton Forge, will be given. For further particulars and sleeping car space, address W. A. Wilson, S. P. A., Hopkinsville, Ky., or call on agent of Henderson Route Railway.

Piles Upon Top of Piles.

Piles upon top of piles of people have the Piles, and DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures them. There are many different kinds of Piles, but if you get the genuine and original Witch Hazel Salve made by E. C. DeWitt & Co. of Chicago, a cure is certain. H. A. Tinslie, of Summerton, S. C., says: "I had piles 30 years and DeWitt's Salve cured me. After everything else failed." Sold by all druggists.

Up-To-Date Paragraphs.

Co-operation is in the air.
Dollar wheat is in the air.
Twelve cent cotton is in the air.
Seven cent cattle is in the air.
And this is the year when farmers will come to the front.
Farmers to the front.
That's where they belong.

Get off the earth! The farmers can enforce this command if they will.

Remember, a good way to be at the spectator is to stick your head.

We will say again that a granary on the farm is better than an elevator on the other man's lot.

Until the farms are built up in fertility the average yields of our crops cannot be increased. Until good prices prevail year after year the fertility cannot be restored.

Crop Report for June.

The crop report of the State Agricultural Department for the month of June has been sent out.

It is as follows:

The early part of the month of June was generally dry giving a good opportunity to cultivate the growing crops. Good showers began about the 25th. While they were partial, they continued until nearly all parts of the State were reached and benefited. In some localities they were severe and washed the land badly, doing some damage by drowning crops in low places. There are, however, still some sections that complain of drought.

The wheat harvest is over throughout the State, and thrashing has begun. The acreage is short and the crop is reported generally thin, but the head filled well and the grain is exceptionally good. There is some little damage by mold, caused by frequent showers while in shock. The oat crop is below the standard, having headed too low on account of the dry weather in June. Rye is fairly good, just a little below the average.

The corn crop is a little late, but has been well worked and gives promise of a full crop.

Since hemp has gotten out of the way of the oat worm it is doing fairly well. Barley is reported below an average.

The average of tobacco, especially in the western or dark district, is considerably reduced. Much of the planting all over the State was done so late that it will require an exceptionally good season to insure maturity in time to make a good quality.

Meadows, pastures and clover are reported in fair condition. The acreage in stock peas is less than an average on account of high prices of seed. There will be a fall potato crop, both in acreage and condition.

Live stock of all kinds is reported in good condition. The apple and peach crops are reported about one-half of a full crop. Apples continue to fall off the trees before they mature. Other fruits, including grapes, are in good condition and promise a fair crop.

Garnishee Law Changed.

Of interest to merchants is the new garnishee bill, which was passed by the last Legislature and which became only this month a law without the Governor's signature. The bill amends the provision of Section 1701 Kentucky Statutes, which, with reference to exemptions from attachment, reads: "Provided, That the exemption of fifty dollars shall not apply to debts contracted for food, fuel, medicine, raiment or home rent for the family." Under the old law the wages of a person earning less than $50 a month, were not subject to attachment and for food, fuel, medicine, fuel, etc. Now the exemption for debts of that character is the same as the exemption of any other debts. Under the present law unless a person earns more than $50 a month his wages cannot be attached for any debt.

Mothers, harkon! while I tell What will make your baby well—"TEETHINA" cures them of all pain. And gives them rosy cheeks again. Yes, "TEETHINA" Overcomes and Counteracts the effects of the Summer's Heat, Aids Digestion, Regulates the Bowels, and makes Teething Easy. Costs 25 cents at Druggists.

NICER TO BE A COUNTRY

DOCTOR THAN AN EDITOR.

The editor of the Hartford Herald has made a thorough inspection of the duties and occupations of life, and has come to the conclusion that the country editor has drawn the smallest lot.

"Of all the laborers of the land who live by the efforts of their brain, perhaps the country editor has the hardest lot. The banker, the bookkeeper, the lawyer, the preacher, the doctor and others who must think out a livelihood, have their seasons of recreation and surcease from active labor. But the newspaper man knows no rest from the time he awakes until sleep claims him again. He is expected not only to hunt and find all the news, but to be able to write up anything from a dog fight to a 'leader' in the political situation—from a baby birth to a high social function. Upon a big city paper every writer has his part, but the country editor must do it all. He knows no rest during waking hours, and even when in the arms of Morpheus he is often tortured by the nightmare of some irate subscriber sitting astride of him and demanding to know at the point of a gun why a certain occurrence was or was not mentioned. Oh, it is lovely to be a country editor."

The NEWS 50 cents a year until August 1.

ANNOUNCEMENTS.

FOR COUNTY JUDGE.

WE are authorized to announce Henry Bellevue Brown as a candidate for County Judge of Breckenridge county, subject to the action of the Democratic party.

Parker's appendix is all right.

Mr. Parker's telegram was a great stand play to catch votes.What did Bryan do in 1902? What did he do in 1904? Dictate!
Oh, no!It is nothing to be brave and courageous when you've got a Bill behind you.Mr. Parker has spoken and what he said was a plenty to wake up every Democrat in the land.The Henderson Route "Flyer" is doing a handsome business. No finer train goes out of Louisville.We pity the stumps over this good land. What a time they'll have from now until the first of November.And there stands Joe Blackburn and Bryan and James and Woodson on gold platform. They got there by the bombshell route."We press toward the mark for the prize"—the offices. Give us say old plans, even if burnt by Republicanism, we will stand on it to get the offices.It's Parker and Davis and Roosevelt and Fairbanks. About the only difference between the two tickets is hard to stay there. The Democrats are out and trying to ride in on the G. O. P. platform.It's amusing to see how some of our fellow Democrats get from their old ways and how they have abused men for seeing and doing years ago
just what they are compelled to do at this late date. Anything does the name of Democracy is all right, though.The farmers are getting down to common sense in their business.
Organization, frequent conferences and knowing when they are right will accomplish the desired results.
The buyers of wheat have their staying caps on. They are up against a hard proposition.We take pleasure in announcing Henry Morrison's candidacy for County Judge, subject to the action of the Democratic party. No finer young man lives in the county and none more capable of filling the office of County Judge. We commend the young man's pluck and energy to the consideration of his fellow Democrats.The Democrats are just now getting to where some of us found ourselves four years ago. It's a little hard to give up our ideals of forty years ago, but you gradually get over them and fall into line. Some men have to have a bombshell thrown into their ranks before they see a thing. It is better to get there by the bombshell route than not at all.If Judge Parker had spoken twenty-four hours earlier he would never have been the nominee of the St. Louis convention. This is an as true as gospel and no Democrat can deny it. Bryan still dominates the Democratic party, just as much as he did in 1896 and 1900. Bryan defeated the gold plank and would have defeated Parker had his views been known.Our special July subscription price will be withdrawn Aug. 1. Everyone who wants to save money should not now.

Scrofula

Few are entirely free from it.
It may develop so slowly as to cause little if any disturbance during the whole period of childhood.
It may then produce irregularity of the stomach and bowels, dyspepsia, catarrh, and marked tendency to consumption before manifesting itself in much cutaneous eruption or glandular swelling.It is best to be sure that you are quite free from it, and for its complete eradication you can rely on

We can but We Won't

Do you think we cannot make buggies out of paint and varnish and low grade stuff and call it high grade? We can but we won't. The Geo. Delker Co.'s name stands for good work and good material in every part, where you can see it and where you can't.

There is less profit in this kind of work, but more satisfaction to both maker and user. If it's new and up-to-date, we make it. Remember the buggy makes the name, not the name the buggy.

The Same Old Story.

J. A. Kelly relates an experience similar to that which has happened in almost every neighborhood in the United States and has been told and re-told by thousands of others. He says: Last summer I had an attack of dysentery and purchased a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which I used according to directions and with entirely satisfactory results. The trouble was controlled much quicker than former attacks when I used other remedies. Mr. Kelly is a well known citizen of Henderson, N. C., for sale by A. R. Fisher, Cloverport, and R. A. This is not intended as a free puff for the company who do not advertise with us but to benefit little sufferers who may not be within easy access of a physician.

No family should be without a bottle of this medicine in the house, especially in summer time.—Lansing, Iowa, Journal. For sale by A. R. Fisher, Cloverport, and R. A. Shellman, Steppensport.

Bananas to Sell by Weight.

New York, July 6.—Within a short period the United Fruit Company will establish throughout the entire scope of their distribution in this country, says the Journal of Commerce, the system of selling bananas by weight instead of by the bunch.

Pass On The Praise.

"You're a great little wife and I don't know what I would do without you."—As he spoke he put his arms about her and kissed her, and she forgot all the care in that moment.

And forgetting all she sang and she made the dithers, and sang as she made the beds, and the song was heard next door and a woman there caught the refrain and sang also, and so homes were happier because he had told her the sweet old story—the story of the life of a husband, told a wife. As she sang the husband lay who called for the order heard it, and went whistling on his journey, and the world heard the whistle, and one man hearing it thought, "There is a lad who loves work, a lad happy and contented."

And because she sang her heart was mellowed, and as she swept about the back door the cool air kissed her on each cheek, and she thought of a poor old woman she knew, and a little packet went over to that home with a quarter for a crate or two of wood. So because he kissed her and praised her, the song came and the influence went out and on. Pass on the praise.

A word and you may make a rift in the clouds, a smile and you may create a new resolve, a grasp of the hand and you may repossess a soul from hell. Pass on the praise.

Men Must Work.

History shows and observation confirms the fact that the happiest people are the busiest, and that, in the long run, idleness conduces to wretchedness. Moreover, man was made to work. Perhaps that is one reason why Adam and Eve went wrong in the beautiful Garden of Eden, because they did not have enough to do, and when by divine fiat they were driven out and compelled to begin a life of toil, this apparent curse was to prove ultimately a blessing to them and to their long line of descendants. Men differ in their capacity to sing, paint and create, but the one tie that binds humanity together is its ability to work. And when one ceases to work he ceases to grow. He begins to degenerate.
